Milk does not have iron, but is still a good drink for your child.

Offer your child 2 cups (500 mL) of milk a day.

Give milk only with meals.

Give water between meals.

Give milk in an open cup.

If your child is still using a bottle, plan to take them off the bottle by 12–14 months of age.

More than 2 cups (500 mL) of milk a day can make your child too full to eat foods with iron.
